THE CLIENT

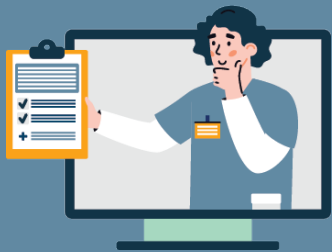

A federally qualified health center (FQHC) sought to improve their current care teams by expanding their existing partnership with HealthChannels and adding new allied health roles offered by Enbli Health, a HealthChannels brand. By redesigning their care teams and existing workflows and adding virtual support, the Idaho health center was able to create a more effective care team that reduces provider burdens.

THE CARE TEAM

After reviewing workflows with the Enbli Health team, the FQHC added 12 Virtual Clinical Assistants to its team. These Virtual Clinical Assistants support greater breadth of responsibilities, leveraging Speke AI for documentation and allowing each clinical assistant to provide a greater scope of support.

The new care team design has enabled the FQHC to focus on care gap closure, targeting improved scores in several key areas including substance use disorders and depression admissions.

Enbli Health's allied health team members have driven the improvement of these scores for all four locations, which make up the third ranked FQHC in the nation for compliance. Thanks to their HealthChannels and Enbli Health partnership, this redesign has resulted in a more flexible and resilient care team that drives further success.
